

CONGRESS PLAGUED BY FILIBUSTER IN THE SENATE

Committees Toil to Perfect Farm Bill to Start Legislative Mill

A BITTER WRANGLE

Over Anti-Lynching Bill Ties Things Up in The Senate

By Edward B. Lockett
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17—(INS)—President Roosevelt's special session of Congress, three days old, today found itself plagued by a young filibuster in the Senate and momentary inactivity in the House.

Meanwhile, committees toiled to perfect a farm bill that will start the legislative mill grinding on Mr. Roosevelt's program.

In the Senate, a bitter wrangle over the anti-lynching bill tied things up. Despite predictions of both leaders on both sides of the issue that no prolonged filibuster was in view, the delay threatened to extend until the Senate agricultural committee presents a farm bill to break the deadlock. By agreement, when a farm bill is reported out of committee, it will be given precedence.

Democratic leadership, strangely enough, showed no disposition to try immediately to stop the haranguing on the anti-lynching bill. Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, said he planned no steps to cut off debate, adding he did not believe it would extend more than three or four days. While Senator Connally (D) of Texas, who led opposition forces, took the same view, Senator Pepper (D) of Florida, and several other Southerners did not take quite such an optimistic attitude.

"We are going to try and continue the debate until the farm bill can replace the anti-lynching bill," Pepper said. "I believe we can do it."

Connally led off debate on the anti-lynching bill after its sponsor, Senator Wagner (D) of New York, won floor recognition to move that the Senate take up the bill. He still had the floor as the Senate reconvened today, and was saving his own breath by having the reading clerk read off page after page of the lengthy address on the bill delivered in 1935 by Supreme Court Justice Hugo L. Black, then an Alabama Senator.

Half a dozen other Democrats planned to speak against taking up the anti-lynching bill, including Senators Bilbo of Mississippi, Andrews of Florida, Bailey of North Carolina, and Pepper. Thus, it appeared that it will be quite a while before the subject will be exhausted. When the preliminary delay strategy is exhausted, a vote will come in the Senate on Wagner's motion to consider the bill. That, leaders concede, will carry, and then the fight will start all over again in debate on the bill itself.

Oddly, however, the anti-lynching filibuster carried in it a definite impetus for speed in the Senate agricultural committee work to draft a farm bill. Senator Smith (D) of South Carolina, is chairman of the Senate agricultural committee, and there is no more bitter foe of the anti-lynching bill in Congress than he. Thus, because the faster he brings his committee to final farm bill when turned over by the committee will displace anti-lynching, the action, the better are his chances of blocking a final vote on anti-lynching, virtually assured of passage once a vote is attained.

NAZI WOMAN SPY BAFFLES BRITISH

Cleverest of Modern "Mata Haris" Believed Seeking Rearmament Details

ENTERED SECRETLY

(Note: This is the last of a series of three articles describing some of Europe's modern "Mata Haris".—INS.)

By Kingsbury Smith
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Nov. 17—(INS)—British Intelligence agents today were seeking to track down a woman who is regarded as one of Europe's greatest feminine spies.

Believed to be working in the German military secret service, this woman is reported to have entered England secretly some time ago to find out details of Great Britain's vast rearmament program.

Her identity is only partly known, yet she is believed to be the most clever of the modern "Mata Haris" who are now engaged in espionage on behalf of Europe's war-jittery governments.

Reportedly born in Silesia, she is described as a plump, mature, cultured woman in the thirties.

She is credited with being responsible for the capture of a young Englishman who was recently beheaded in Germany on charges of espionage.

Reports reached the British Intelligence service that she had entered the country recently and Britain's Secret Service agents are trying to find out whether she is still here.

This woman is believed to have succeeded Marie Louise as Germany's master woman spy. Marie Louise, who died recently, was credited with having trapped Lieutenant Bailey-Stewart, former Guards officer, into indiscretions which led to his confinement in the Tower of London and subsequent discharge from the British Army on suspicion of divulging military secrets.

One of the most daring and resourceful of Europe's mystery women spies is known only as the "Umbrella Girl." She acquired this title because her original clue to her identity was a small, feminine umbrella which contained secret compartments in which she is believed to have hidden notes. The secret compartments in this umbrella aroused the interest of local French police, to whom it was turned over. They reported it to the political police, who attempted to trace her. "Her investigation led to the conviction that she was one of the most clever women spies now known to be operating in Europe. She is believed to have been extremely active in Spain just before the civil war broke out. However, she is still at large and her identity remains a mystery."

REPUBLICAN WOMEN TO HEAR SPEAKERS

Much Attention is Centered On Address To Be Made By Hamilton

GREEN TO SPEAK

By Dick Shaner
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 17—(INS)—Political prospects for the 1938 elections that brought both national and State Republican chieftains here today held the attention of the 15th annual convention of the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women.

Featured speaker of the occasion was John D. M. Hamilton, national chairman of the party, whose appearance here was significantly looked upon as the opening shot of the GOP's post-election comeback campaign in Pennsylvania, "proving grounds" of the nation.

Particular attention was riveted on Hamilton's address in view of its pertinence to both national and state issues. Also in the forefront were the highly important gubernatorial and senatorial races next year, posts which the Republicans are anxious to regain.

Preceding the national leader's appearance, however, were to be addresses by G. Edward Green, state chairman of the party, G. Mason Owllett, National Committeeman for Pennsylvania, and several prominent national committeewomen from surrounding states.

Later in the afternoon was scheduled a conference of young Republicans, led by Miss Kathryn M. Clifton, of Philadelphia, state-wide chairman of the group.

The meeting today was the first rally sponsored by the GOP since the Nov. 2 elections. Out of the three-day convention was expected to be formulated the plans and policies for the Republican line of attack in its attempt to regain the political dominance of the Keystone state which was

Congress May Lead

THE most striking thing about this special session of Congress is the change in the atmosphere. How long it will last no one can tell, but certainly it is the first since Mr. Roosevelt became President in which House and Senate leaders, taking their cue from him, have not assumed the attitude that business as a whole needed rigid regulation, that successful business men systematically exploited the poor, underpaid labor, swayed little children generally disregarded "human rights" and deserved, therefore, to be kicked around.

THAT WAS the White House thesis upon which Mr. Roosevelt has steadily harped. The incultation of that idea has been the principal job of his propaganda agencies and there have been few Presidential public utterances in which he has not fostered it. It was the reason for the pillorying of business men before Congressional committees, for the dramatic staging of the "tax dodgers drive," for the various punitive measures conceived by the Corcoran-Cohen Brain Trust and sponsored by Mr. Roosevelt. An integral part of the old Huey Long soak-the-rich political strategy. It has been at the base of the New Deal effort to array the Have-Nots against the Haves.

AFTER FOUR YEARS of this, it is interesting that this session opens with what seems a partial retreat by the President and certainly a strong reversal of feeling upon the part of Congress. So far as the latter is concerned, the "crusading spirit" is dead. It is through with reform and wants to retrench. While there are shrill protests from the radical wing and great pain among the national planners, the whole trend of vocal Congressional opinion is for a repeal and modification of onerous tax laws, for the cutting down of expenses, for a balanced budget and the removal of the burdens so enthusiastically imposed on business. In brief, while there are still in Congress and around the President men who want to keep their heel on the neck of industry, inflate the currency, pile up the debt and continue along the early Tugwellian lines, the conviction grows that we have been taken too far and in the wrong direction; that unless a halt is called and drastic action taken, disastrous results are likely to ensue. The reasons are clear enough. The business slump has taken the shine off the New Deal, driven home the fact that the harassing and handicapping of industry inevitably reacts most painfully upon the very people in whose welfare the New Deal professes primary concern.

APPROXIMATELY 5000 UNEMPLOYMENT CARDS DELIVERED

Bristol Carriers Leave Over 3100 in Bristol; 1800 On Rural Routes

200 ALREADY RETURNED

Expect Requests for About 500 Additional of The Forms

By nine o'clock this morning, less than a day after the last of the unemployment census cards were distributed in Bristol borough and on Bristol rural delivery routes, 200 had been returned to Bristol post office.

It is stated by post-office officials that approximately 3,100 such cards were delivered by mail carriers to homes in Bristol yesterday, in addition to 1,800 left at homes in the rural sections by rural carriers.

"We expect requests for 400 or 500 additional blanks" stated a post office representative today, these for use in families where more than one is out of employment.

Yesterday all local and rural carriers started over their routes with bags laden with hundreds of the forms. At each house in the borough was one card delivered, with additional ones where requests were made for same. In instances where no one was at home one card was left at each house. If more are desired by these families they may be secured at the post office, it is stated.

In the township areas, Bristol and Bensalem, one card was placed in each mail box.

The carriers found occasion to answer numerous questions put to them yesterday, regarding the unemployment census.

The regular force of mail carriers at Bristol post office delivered all the forms, no additional help being used. All forms must be returned to Bristol post office by Saturday next, November 20th, it is stated. The forms may be handed to the carriers, mailed or taken to the post office.

The purpose of the unemployment census is to determine the exact number of unemployed persons in the United States. Those who have not received cards may apply at Bristol post office.

ANOTHER SHANGHAI!

Belief of many persons interested in the Far East is that the day of the foreigner is done in Shanghai. They are convinced that the Japanese, if they win the current conflict, will close the "open door" to China's most important port. If the Chinese should be strong enough to expel the Japanese, the argument goes, they would feel strong enough to expel the nationals of Western nations.

In these circumstances, it is a clever move for President Quezon, of the Philippine Commonwealth, to offer Manila as a second or alternative Shanghai. He points out for the benefit of foreign traders and business men that Manila has not been subjected to periodic disturbances, as has Shanghai, that peace in the future seems assured, that Manila has ample transportation lines to all parts of the world, stable currency, plentiful and cheap labor and low taxes.

As an added attraction, he puts forward the proposal to make Manila a free port for trans-shipment, so that traders there could be on equal terms with those of Hongkong and Singapore. Several corporation executives with interests—and losses—in Shanghai find President Quezon's prospectus worth considering.

A fly in the ointment is that, with Manila as another Shanghai, the Japanese might be even more eager to take over the Philippines than they already are.

FALL GEOGRAPHY LESSONS

In addition to its gifts to lovers of sports, the American game of foot ball is now the best known teacher of American geography. Every fall, when millions of football fans and followers scan sports pages and listen to radio descriptions, they acquire a new and deep interest in far sections of the country, and there is much talk and study of maps to learn where teams originate and something about their sponsors. Eastern foot ball fans, for example, suddenly discover that Texas is more than a big piece of land when they find such good eleven as those of Baylor, Rice and Southern Methodist, and immediately they concede that Texas is really an important part of the Union.

No other American activity keeps every section of the country so clearly before every other section as does football in the fall of the year. In criticism of foot ball as a sport that for a time preoccupies the minds of collegiates, and thus may injure direct educational programs, let it not be forgotten that football is teaching Americans of every region where the rest of the country is, and that there are many colleges.

HOPE FOR THE SHRINKING

Now that Mayor Fiorella H. "Little Flower" LaGuardia has been re-elected mayor of the great city of New York, all those possessed of an inferiority complex should take hope.

If the modest, reticent, self-effacing mayor of New York could be re-elected despite his aversion to publicity, reporters and cameramen, which amounts almost to a mania, there is hope for the Caspar Milquetoasts in all walks of life.

New York's shrinking violet, who tackles any kind of job that comes along if it is big enough and for the benefit of the per-pal, and who never brags about himself, has delivered a death blow to the go-getter myth.

Keller; educational, Dr. A. J. Strathie; organization, William Burgess, Jr.; shipping board, Hon. Thomas B. Stockham; training, Walter W. Pitzenka; and the Scout Executive reported for the Cub and Health and Safety Judge Keller's report for the three Courts of Honor for the November period will give advancement of 48 Second Class, 39 First Class, 3 Star Scouts, 4 Life Scouts, 2 Veterans, and 214 merit badges.

Seymour VanOrden was introduced as a new member of the board from Morrisville. He is one of the vice-chairmen of the Delaware Valley district. A complete series of graphs showing the growth in membership, and the high advancement record in Scouting was given by Scout Executive William F. Livermore. The new National Council plan for the simplification of council committees was approved.

The new seven committees will be activities and campaign (activities, camp, camping, and civic service), advancement (court of honor), finance (finance), health and safety (health and safety), organization (cub, organizational, rural, shipping board), training (training), and educational (educational). The former legal committee is discontinued with Thomas Ross volunteering his services as advisor.

The retirement plan for Scouting personnel was adopted from the report of Dr. J. J. Willaman, National Council representative. Parts of the plan were discussed by Past President C. Wilson Roberts, Arthur M. Eastburn, John Woodbridge, and Hon. Hiram H. Keller. The inspiration of the Third Region meeting at Baltimore was given to the Executive Board by William Burgess—"advancement," Hon. Thomas B. Stockham—"senior scouting," and William F. Livermore—"civic service and regional objectives."

Hon. Thomas B. Stockham was introduced to the board as the new Regional Commodore. Mr. Stockham expressed his happiness in giving Scouting service. He thanked the council for the co-operation Morrisville had received during the recent Armistice Day celebration. It was decided that the 1938 Council meeting will be in the Court House on the fourth Monday of March. Committee presentations were approved.

There will be a Scouting Conference at Doylestown on Sunday, November 25th. Chairman of Training Walter W. Pitzenka stated the courses would be the Elements Part I of Cub, Scout and Seascout leadership. There will be a "hobbies" specialization course of sixteen subjects. The details involved in the problems of Scouting operations required a late meeting.

The Great Game of Politics

AS THINGS STAND, it is not only accurate to say, but quite plain that the desire among Democrats in Congress to encourage business, to cut down expenses and refrain from further regulatory legislation is greater than the President's; that they are willing to go farther and faster than the President, despite the conciliatory words of his message and its sounder recommendations. There are for this several explanations. One is the well-known fact that there has not been a time since 1933 when Mr. Roosevelt could not have led Congress more easily in the conservative direction than in the one he took. Another is because members of Congress realize that whether Mr. Roosevelt is personally as popular or not, there has been a change in their States and districts toward the New Deal policies; that the business slump is real, that it imposes hardship on the poor and unless checked will react against the Administration.

THERE IS STILL another reason—a reversal of direction does not involve for Congress the same sort of seeming stultification it does for Mr. Roosevelt. To do the things now that the situation urgently demands and which his own fiscal officials advocate is, in effect, to admit that he has been wrong from the start, that he has made rather a mess of things, that his critics were right and it is now necessary to undo some of the things he has done. It takes a pretty big man to do that kind of thing. In the beginning Mr. Roosevelt claimed to be that kind of man. He said that if the experiments he proposed did not work out "I will be the first to admit the mistake." He has not made good on that. He has not admitted that anything he has done or tried to do was an error—not policies such as the Warren gold policy or the "Satellite Cities" of the Tagwell days, which have been abandoned, or the NRA, or the AAA, or the attempt to pack the Supreme Court, or anything else.

REGARDLESS of the collapse of many of his schemes and the waste of time, effort and money in others, now wiped out of existence, Mr. Roosevelt's position is that he has made no mistakes, that the recession of business is not the fault of his policies, but of business itself. Faced now with a really desperate state of affairs apparently his pride will not let him wholeheartedly take the steps necessary—and which he knows to be necessary—to deal with it. He cannot bring himself to go "the distance." His friends say "You can't expect him to repudiate himself—he's got to save his face." The question is whether, with the nation on the brink of bankruptcy, preserving the President's pride and saving his face are going to prevent saving the country, no easy thing at best. The really encouraging sign is the demonstration of sentiment among the President's adherents in Congress, who are convinced of the vital need for immediate action. It may be that at this session Congress will supply the leadership and the President do the following. That wouldn't be so much of a change as it might seem—when the record of the last session is considered.

JOE COX AND RUSSELL BOOKED FOR ARENA

TRENTON, Nov. 17.—The battle of the "bulls" is slated for tomorrow night at the Arena when "Dynamite" Joe Cox and Rebel Rob Russell will clash in a one fall, one hour setto that will headline the most attractive wrestling card that Promoter Johnny Ipp has ever offered to local wrestling fans.

In addition to the Russell-Cox clash, Ray Steele, bronzed Californian title-contender will vie with Bill Sledge, classy Texan, and Cliff Olson, berserk Swede, will face Mayes McLain, Sammy Menacher, lithe Bronx Hebrew and a mat dare-devil, will meet Jim Wallis and Jack Holland, handsome did not defeated Los Angeles youngster will face his sternest test against the redoubtable Casey Berger.

Nothing would please the fans more than to see Cox stop the ructions of Russell. The Rebel has taken everything that has been pitted against him in stride. He has scored victories over Menacher, McLain, Sid Westrich and his most unpopular win was scored last week over "Irish" Jack Kennedy. He is one of the most unorthodox grapplers ever to perform here and his off-color tactics have made him the ace enemy of the fans.

In addition to victories that Russell scored over the men mentioned above, he is the only man this season to defeat Cox. Joe has been after a return match since losing to the Rebel but Russell has been loathe to grant him another chance.

Ipp scored a ten stroke when he made the re-match and the exceptionally fine card that will precede the main go.

"RECS" HOCKEY CLUB IN SURPRISE VICTORY GAME

The "Recs" Hockey Club pulled a surprise victory over the Atlantic City "Pros" Sunday evening on their home floor. This puts the Bristol boys with three victories and no defeats, so far this season.

Scoring in every period the "Recs" completely upset a team that has not felt defeat in the last two years. Credit must be given to the visitors however, who played a bang-up game throughout.

Shortly after the first period opened, the first and only casualty of the game occurred, when Mulholland, playing goalie for the "Recs" was struck in the face with the puck.

The local club got off to a flying start in this period scoring two points to Atlantic's nothing. Leeper started the scoring spree on a shot assisted by Higgins. "Mush" Higgins then scored the second goal unassisted with a long shot from the center of the floor. In the second period Gerner, captain of the "Pros" made the first goal for the visitors. This however did not discourage the home boys who added two more points off the stick of Higgins. In the last period both teams bore down and each scored a point apiece, Higgins and Gerner again doing the scoring. On the offense Higgins and Gerner stood out, while on the defense Reimer and B. Ritter shared honors.

TRAIN BREAKS DOWN

HARTFORD, Conn. (INS)—It's been a long time since the crack 5:15 express from Springfield to New York has failed to show up on time, but recently it failed to come in at all. Railroad officials explained to scores of disappointed passengers milling about the platform at Union Station that the locomotive had broken down in Windsor Locks. So the passengers waited a bit longer and took the 6:20 instead.
